AT THE COLUMBIA.
There will be an act on the bill at the Columbia tonight that will prove a sensation to the natives. It is Bruce Duffett & Co., who will present for the first time in Davenport their sensational comedy, "Cornered By Wireless." The act has played the best theatres in the country and has received the most favorable notices from the dramatic critics. Much scenery will be displayed and it is said that the piece is especially well acted. Milton and De Long Sisters, who have been playing the "big time," have made a jump from Denver to Davenport to play their engagement at the Columbia. From Davenport the act goes direct to the Majestic theatre, Chicago. They are presenting a rural comedy entitled "The Terminal." Diaz Monks will close the show with one of the funniest monkey acts in the show business. The children especially will be pleased to learn of their return date. Knapp and Cornella, in "A Potpourri of Vaudeville," have one of those "sure fire" offerings that Columbia audiences enjoy. The men do a bit of many things and do them well. Last but not least is P. George, "The Musical Chef," who will open the show with a diversified act. His numbers, beside being entertaining are somewhat mystifying.

AT THE ILLINOIS.
In the case of "The Elopers," at least, there would appear to be a great deal, for nearly everybody who has come into intimate connection with this production has been either married or engaged. It was while with this show that George Stoddard, who wrote the book not only of "The Elopers," but of "The Royal Chef," "The Isle of Spice" and many other successes, became engaged to and later married, one of the girls playing a minor part. Nor was Mr. Stoddard the only one to hear the call of Cupid through "The Elopers." The general manager of the show married one of the ladies of the chorus and the man who originally made the Chicago production was wed on the eve of the original Chicago opening. A little later on Oliver Bingham, the stage manager, became engaged, and so it has been going on ever since—marriage, engagement, engagement, marriage. "The Elopers" comes to the Illinois theatre next Sunday, matinee and night.

AT THE MAJESTIC.
She had never known a mother's love, or love of any type for the matter of that. Her father had reared her a botanist, like himself, and she had traveled the world over. When this girl met a flirtatious young man who had spent his young life making love to every pretty girl who would listen to him, their widely diverging natures awoke a strangely irresistible appeal. Turbulent nature then took a hand, lightning struck the flirtatious youth and the sensitive maiden brought him back to life under the most unusual circumstances imaginable. These points demonstrate only a few of the unusual elements that conspire to make "Little Eve Edgarton" one of the classics of photoplaying in which Ella Hall and Herbert Rawlinson will appear tonight at the Majestic in this photoplay made from Eleanor H. Abbott's serial originally printed in Everybody's Magazine.

AT SPENCER SQUARE.
A photoplay not hampered by studio walls comes to the Spencer Friday and Saturday. The vastness of nature's stage gives the atmosphere of "The Stronger Love" a singular grandeur. It's an outdoor, mountain and pine woods story. On the mountain live two clans. The crest of the mountain is the boundary line. The outer world is shut off by the encircling hills and these primitive people toil and spin, live and die; in a little world very strange to our city life. But from this Morocco-Paramount photodrama we learn that such a strange world can have its heartaches, its bitter passions and its moments of exaltation. The crudity of these surroundings serve as a strong contrast to the fairy-like and aesthetic beauty of the star, Vivian Martin, who in a part of singular appeal makes this a remarkable production.

REQUIRE PLEDGES FROM OUTSIDERS

People Living Beyond City Limits Who Get Water Service Must Sign Contracts in Future.

BOOST FOR MORE ANNEXATION

Agreement Stipulates That Owners of Property Who are Aided Will Sign Petitions.

One of the most decisive steps looking towards future success in annexation propositions was taken today by Rock Island municipal authorities in the preparation of contracts to be made with people living just beyond the city limits.

Numerous petitions for extension of municipal water service to points beyond the city limits have been received by Commissioner J. A. Murrin, in charge of the water department. In order to protect the city's interests he has had prepared contracts which bind the persons to not only boost for an annexation proposition, but to sign petitions for annexation.

Persons living outside of the city limits who secure city water must pay double the rate of those in the city. This, it is believed, will militate for the success of any annexation proposition involving the territory.

The city has to some extent in the past permitted the extension of water service outside of the limits, but it has confined as largely as possible construction work within the limits. It has always held water service as one of the benefits derived by people living within the city as an inducement for annexation. But the city can use the money and when persons living beyond the limits ask for water service they are asking to buy what the city sells. Accordingly the city is in a receptive mood when petitions are received, but it did not wish to endanger its interest in future annexation propositions by granting the requests unless assurances would be given that the owners of property who get water service would aid annexation. It was for this reason that set contracts have been drawn up.

Repair Old Pump.
Commissioner Murrin announced today that the Holly Gaskell pump at the pumping station has been completely overhauled, giving the city three pumps, the Snow in regular use, the Worthington centrifugal, and auxiliary, and the Holly Gaskell, also an auxiliary with a capacity of 4,000,000 gallons.

Peoria Baby Show Abandoned.
Peoria, Ill., Sept. 21.—Fear of a spread of the epidemic of infantile paralysis through central Illinois led directors of the National Implement and Vehicle Show association today to abandon plans for the "better baby" contest held annually in connection with the show. The fair opens Sept. 26 and continues to Oct. 7.
